THE CHURCH & THE CALL FOR JESUS JUSTICE

THE PROBLEM

Every 30 seconds, someone enters into human trafficking. One of those aspects is sex trafficking, and new slaves are needed every day.

Traffickers need new commodities and are constantly looking for their next victim. Thankfully, through education, we can save lives by learning what human trafficking is and how we can identify the signs of victimization.

In America, most people are aware of forced trafficking. Still, according to the Department of Justice, less than 10% of victims are lured into trafficking through force, which makes the art of trafficking unbeknownst to most of the population.

Thankfully, we have the Church to fight back! With education about trafficking and learning the signs to look out for, church leaders and volunteers can now be mindful of the tactics used to secure lifelong sex slaves and assist in preventing victims from entering into lifelong servitude, protecting those in the flock.

Assisting families, youth, and church members, leaders can now be trained and aware of human trafficking tactics and fight back.
